DRAG OUT A DEER, NOT YOUR HUNTING COMPANION, SAY COUNTY AGENTS

County agents of Maine Extension Service suggest that hunters in the Pine Tree State be sure of the object at which they're shooting before pulling the trigger. "Drag out a deer, not your hunting companion," they say. "Also, let's be very careful of farmers' property when hunting this fall. Remember, the woods and fields on his farm are his property just as much as your front yard or flower garden are yours. Treat his property with the same respect you would your own."

BETHEL AND VICINITY

Miss Laura Wilson was at home from the University of Maine during the week end.

Parker Day and Reginald Kneeland are at home from Pine Camp, N. Y., for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Royal Hodson and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Poore visited friends in Brownfield Sunday.

Mrs. Richard Emmons of Burlington, Vt., spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Browne.

Local friends of David M. Forbes are sorry to learn of his serious illness in the Rumford Community Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Farwell are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Anderson in their new home at Needham, Mass.

Wayne Perry was in Boston Friday and Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sotherne and son Brian of Lovell.

The food sale Saturday, sponsored by Sunset Rebekah Lodge, netted $28. Another food sale will be held Nov. 10.

Lorraine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Eames, underwent a tonsil operation at the Rumford hospital Tuesday.

Miss Leonora Hodgdon of Redbank, N. J., visited her sister, Mrs. W. J. Upson, and Miss Frances Hodgdon the past week.

Mrs. Frank Bartlett visited her brothers, Edward Hutchins, Brandon, Vt., and Charles Hutchins, Crown Point, N. Y., last week.

Mrs. Vance Richardson will speak at the Chamber of Commerce meeting next Tuesday evening. Her subject will be on her trip abroad.

Mrs. Roland Kneeland, teacher in the grammar school, visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Berry while attending teachers' convention in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Philbrook accompanied Mrs. D. C. Philbrook on her return to Bethel, returning to their home in Schenectady, N. Y., Saturday.

Sunday brought the first snow, about two inches. Slippery blind travelling was reported during the evening. A second snowfall is in progress this Thursday.

The new tax books of the town will be committed to Loton Hutchinson today. He was elected tax collector Oct. 20, to finish the term of the late Walter Bartlett.

A 32 foot culvert will replace the present crossing of the brook on Mason Street this fall. With this done and the street raised and widened, a great improvement will be made.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wright will leave New York Friday for their home in England. They have spent the past three months with their daughter, Mrs. Irving Brown, and family.

Sunset Rebekah Lodge will have a pot luck supper at the I. O. O. F. Hall Monday, Nov. 5, at 6:30, preceding the regular meeting of the lodge. All members and families are invited.

Rev. and Mrs. H. T. Wallace will be week end guests of Mrs. W. J. Upson and Miss Frances Hodgdon. Rev. Wallace will occupy the pulpit Sunday morning at the Congregational Church.

The Week in Oxford County

Paul C. Thurston, Bethel, Harold S. Gifford, Rumford, and Lewis H. Bradley, Rumford, were elected directors of International Coach Lines at a meeting of the directors held in Augusta recently.

Norway High School is getting four new classrooms, all modern and with new furniture and fittings. The rooms should be ready for occupancy very soon.

League Games

Because the Sun-Journal League was divided into two divisions

Gould was left with numerous open dates. The Academy is anxious to fill four of these dates and would like to hear from schools who would be interested.

Coach Anderson, starting his 24th consecutive year as basketball coach at Gould, will have only three men back from last year's squad; but all three were regular starters. The loss of center and high-point man, "Hoby" Lowell and Dick Elwell, an excellent feeder, leaves positions that will be hard to fill. A number of last year's J. V. men were showing possibilities toward the end of the season and they will be battling to fill the open positions or may even give some of the veterans a job to hold their posts.

"M" schools are preferred to fill the open dates, but games with "I" schools would be accepted to complete the '52 schedule.

SHIRTS FOR ALL THE FAMILY IS SUBJECT OF ALL EXTENSION ASSNS MEETINGS

Shirts for All the Family is the subject of a series of meetings of the County Extension Associations which will be held throughout Maine this fall and winter. County home demonstration agents are in charge.

Kimball Ames attended a Shell dealers' meeting at Auburn last week.

Frederick Kneeland is at Augusta, studying to become a State trooper. Mrs. Kneeland and daughter are staying with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Kneeland in Gilead during his absence.

The hot lunch program will start in the village schools next Monday.

Mrs. Homer Smith and Mrs. Stanley Brown will be the cooks at the Primary School, with Mrs. Elmer Bean and Mrs. Augustus Carter at the Grammar School.

The Five Town Teachers Club meeting will be held Monday evening, Nov. 5, at 7:30 in the new school building. Marjorie Banks of Rumford will be the speaker and she will tell about her trip to Cuba. Everyone is invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Brown and family had the following supper guests Monday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. George Wright: Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brown, John Brown, Mrs. A. I. de Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Brown, Laurel and Nancy. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Brown, Anne and Corey. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Sanders entertained at a canasta party Friday evening. Winners of first prizes were Mrs. Sanders and Avon Severance, and consolation prizes were Mrs. Severance and Richard Bryant. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jaga, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Kneeland, Mr. and Mrs. George Truitt, Mr. and Mrs. Gary York, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. Avon Severance, and Mr. and Mrs. Sanders.

PLAYERS COMPLETING PLANS FOR PLAY AND DANCE NOV. 17

Plans are being completed for the melodrama and square dance to be given by the Bethel Players at the William Bingham Gymnasium on Saturday, Nov. 17.

The Players are now adding the finishing touches to their packed-out-of-laughter production of "He Ain't Done Right by Nell (or Hil-ton the Heel)" which is being ably directed by David Thompson and supplied by the following talented cast:

Roland Glines, who plays, with his usual dexterity, the treacherous villain, Hilton Hays; Emily Saunders and Dick Young doing mirthful, clever interpretations of Little Nell Perkins, the sweet heroine, and Jack Logan, the unabashed, honest hero; Grannie Perkins is skillfully portrayed by Elsie Waldron while Marge Freeman plays Lolly Wilkins with droll adeptness; the part of Vera Carlton, the sophisticated city girl, is excellently done by Barbara Brown, and her father, Burkett Carlton, is styled by Charlie Pendleton in a manner of comic intensity that is bound to bring the house down.

The melodrama will be followed by a square dance. A fine evening of entertainment is planned.

GOULD ACADEMY

Gould Academy will play host to Wilton Academy Saturday in what will be the final home game for the Huskies. Coach Scott's team showed a complete reversal of form last Saturday in upsetting a highly favored Livermore club and if they play the same brand of ball this week a real battle can be expected. The team however has been most erratic with good and poor jobs interspersed. The winner Saturday is a "toss-up." The game is scheduled to start at 2 p. m. on Alumni Field.

A colorful and exciting play especially adapted for effective production by marionettes was presented in assembly today (Thursday, Nov. 1). "The Tinderbox" is a fascinating play for all ages, combining comedy, intrigue, and suspense. Throughout the five acts there paraded the dashing and romantic figures of Richard the Lion Hearted, Queen Berengaria, Prince John, the Duchess Isabelle and others. Much color was added to the drama by the Crusaders in silver armor, chain mail, helmets, and white capes with red crosses emblazoned thereon. The production was very much enjoyed by everyone.

Paul Hazelton from the Admissions Office of Bowdoin College was a recent visitor at the Academy to talk with Senior boys interested in the college.

On Saturday evening, October 20, the Girls' A. A. entertained the faculty and students of Gould with a Halloween Party in the William Bingham Gym.

Miss Marilyn Mace, president of the G. A. A. served as general chairman of the affair, assisted by Henrietta Swain, Bethel, chairman of decorations, Carol Barton, Sharon, Mass., entertainment, M. Mace, Bethel, refreshments, Donna Anderson, Bethel, records and music.

The gym was decorated with pumpkins, corn stalks, and hay. A huge black spider with a colorful and attractive web decorated the ceiling. Mr. Swain very generously provided the committee with the decorations.

Nancy Dupree, Bethel, served as mistress of ceremonies. Varied stunts and games were enjoyed. The faculty masquerade parade was very confusing to the audience. The winner, Miss Verna Gault, dressed as an elderly grandmother, was aided across the stage by her granddaughter, Miss Dupeyron. M. Amitt. The two were clad in old fashioned night gowns and caps. The winners were presented oscula.

The refreshment committee served popcorn and apples from wheelbarrows and cider and doughnuts were also included.

After the refreshments everyone settled down awaiting the presentation of class skills which were competitive. The freshmen presented "A scene in the 24th grade class room," the juniors, "Football Practice at G. A.," the sophomores, "A talent scout show," the seniors and winners had a pantomime. During the remainder of the evening dancing was enjoyed.

Two football games were played recently by the Junior Varsity team and the results were: Rumford 6, Gould 0, and Gould 1-Bridgton 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reed were guests of relatives in Farmington over to

INSTALLS NEW OFFICERS

The Eleanor Gordon Guild met at the Legion Rooms Wednesday evening, October 24, for installation of officers.

A chicken pie supper preceded the meeting, served by the American Legion Auxiliary. A corage was presented to Mrs. Robert York, the installing officer, and gifts were presented to last year's officers.

Officers installed were: President, Mrs. Wallace Saunders, vice president, Mrs. Albert Buck, secretary, Mrs. Frank Lowell, treasurer, Mrs. Donald Cross.

It was voted to sell candy, popcorn balls and candied apples at the Christmas fair, Nov. 15. Committee in charge are: Decorating, Mrs. George Parsons, Mrs. Wallace Saunders, soliciting, Mrs. Henry Robertson, selling and cleanup, Mrs. Avery Angvine, Mrs. Frank Lowell and Mrs. Wallace Saunders.

The next meeting, Nov. 14, will be to make candied apples and popcorn balls for the sale. The meeting will be held at the president's home with Mrs. Irving Brown and Mrs. Donald Walker assisting. The Nov. 28 meeting will be a membership meeting with a pot luck supper at the church. Hostesses will be Mrs. Albert Buck, Mrs. Henry Robertson and Mrs. George Parsons.

Entertainment will be in charge of Mrs. Robert Keniston and Mrs. Avon Virge. Cleanup committee, Mrs. Elson Paine and Mrs. Avery Angvine. The following were appointed to make up tentative programs for the year: Mrs. Avery Angvine, Mrs. Donald Cross and Mrs. Frank Lowell.

BROTHERHOOD LEARNS OF BRITISH CONDITIONS—NOW AND DURING WAR

The Men's Brotherhood met at the Methodist Church Tuesday evening. An excellent oyster stew supper was served by the supper committee consisting of Leslie Davis, H. I. Bean and Pat Murphy.

After a brief business meeting the near record attendance enjoyed an enlightening discussion led by George Wright of Gravesend, England. Mr. Wright, who is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Irving Brown of Bethel, told of some of his experiences while at sea with the British merchant marine and Royal Navy.

He also spoke of the evacuation of the British at Dunkirk, his work with the Fire Brigade during the Battle of Britain, construction of harbor facilities in Normandy following the Allied European invasion, and discussed present conditions in England.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 27, with Perry Lapham in charge of entertainment and Richard Davis, James Brown and Robert Davis as supper committees.

PERLEY WING

Perley Wing died Saturday at his home on Mechanic Street after a long illness which had confined him to bed the past six weeks.

A native of South Woodstock, Mr. Wing was born March 3, 1868, the son of Gerry E. and Lougueta Billings Wing. A stonecutter and mason, he came here 14 years ago from Bryant Pond.

His widow, the former Bertha Morgan, is his only survivor.

Funeral services were held at the Greenleaf funeral home Tuesday at 2 o'clock. Rev. David Hickland officiated. Burial was in Woodland cemetery.

METHODIST PARENT-TEACHER MEETING

SELF-EMPLOYED COMPELLED TO BE COVERED BY SOCIAL SECURITY IN MOST CASES

Self-employed persons were reminded today by John M. Bratman, manager of the Lewiston office of the Social Security Administration that coverage under the new law is mandatory and not voluntary.

"We believe," he said, "that some individuals in Bethel and vicinity think that coverage is elective. While it is true that certain professional persons are excluded from coverage, the exclusion is by law and not by choice. For all others coverage is compulsory."

Self-employed men and women who are not excluded by law will have to report their 1951 "net earnings" for social security purposes on their income tax returns next March. The social security tax will be paid at the same time. A social security tax may be due even though, because of personal exemptions, there is no income tax to be paid.

In the meantime, those business men and women who are now covered for the first time under social security should get social security numbers if they have never done so.

Account number applications forms are available at post offices and social security field offices.

Anyone whose net earnings from self-employment are $100 or more in a taxable year is "covered" under the new law, unless the earnings are derived from the operation of a farm or the practice of an excluded profession.

Lists of all the excluded professions can be obtained without cost from the social security office at 125 Main Street, Lewiston.

Kimball Ames attended a meeting of the New England Shell Distributors in Boston Tuesday.

LIVERMORE FALLS UPSET BY GOULD, 12-6

Many fans, discouraged by the showing made in the Berlin game, missed the best game of the year last Saturday afternoon as the Huskies of Gould Academy, in a complete reversal of form, stunned the touted invaders with a 12 to 6 victory.

The game started off with what seemed like an easy victory for the Andies, as Richards took the opening kick-off 30 yards to midfield and in just seven plays marched 50 yards to score. Richards was the big gun in this march as he made runs of 23 and 17 yards and finally carried over from the three yard line.

From here on the Gould team came to life to halt the visitors' and in the second period, with some daring football they maintained possession of the ball and eventually scored as Symons scampered 29 yards from a fake pass formation. Gould collected six first downs to Livermore Falls' five in the first half. Both teams missed the extra point and the half ended 6-6.

In the second half few first downs were made as the defense strengthened. Gould managed only four to the invaders two. It was a intercepted pass by Johnson, who raced 53 yards to the L. F. six yard line that set up the winning tally. Livermore Falls put up a stiff defense and in three tries Gould still lacked two feet of scoring. On the fourth down Agnew just did manage to push across that final marker. The place kick was blocked and Gould led 12 to 6.

With only four minutes to go the Livermore Falls Club opened up in a vain effort to tie the score, but a determined underdog bet turned firmly in check. It was a great victory for the home team and a stunning upset for the Andies who had won five in a row.

Dube and Richards were outstanding for the losers as they were a continual threat throughout the game. For the home forces the entire team played improved ball with Johnson and Burnham leading the way on the offense and Captain Adams and Ferguson standing out on the defense.

CIVIL DEFENSE.

PUBLIC SAFETY

At Pearl Harbor, ten years ago this December 7th, the quiet, rest and peace of a Sunday morning was shattered by the terrifying roar of enemy bombers and the fury of high explosive bombs. Unannounced, unexpected, the United States was suddenly at war.

At that time the pattern for future aggressors was established: Surprise Attack!

In late October, 1947, Maine residents were alarmed to find great portions of their state ablaze in a chain of forest fires, accentuated and made more dangerous by a summer-long drought.

In 1949, the President of the United States announced that a potential enemy of our country was known to have the atomic bomb, as well as the planes to deliver it.

These three events, separated by years and thousands of miles, influenced the legislature of the State of Maine to establish, in 1949, the Office of Maine Civil Defense and Public Safety.

This newspaper, as a public service, and in cooperation with the Maine Office of Civil Defense and Public Safety, will bring to its readers a series of weekly articles designed to emphasize the importance of a strong, well-organized, fully-manned Civil Defense structure in our state.

If you take an active part in the Civil Defense and Public Safety program, you may assist in the saving of our lives and property—perhaps your own! Read these articles to learn the part you can play!

SEPTEMBER BUILDING

SLUMPS IN NEW ENGLAND

New England construction awards tumbled 70 per cent in September from the August totals, according to the monthly survey of Gaiety's Construction News, daily New England building industry report.

All states showed declines in September except for Vermont which jumped 118 per cent over its August volume.

Maine's loss was 87 per cent, Massachusetts 76 per cent, Connecticut 62 per cent, Rhode Island 59 per cent, and New Hampshire 9 per cent.

New England dollar building volume for September slumped 34 percent from the corresponding month in 1950.

September volume for the six states was $11,447,528.08 compared to $67,437,662 for the same month last year, and $13,442,215.09 for August.

Residential building declined 60 per cent from September in 1950, while industrial building was up 200 per cent. Public works jumped 63 per cent, but private building slid 77 per cent.

However, while September showed a decline, the nine month cumulative total for 1951 was 14 per cent greater than the corresponding period of 1950, Gaiety's said.

Vance Bacon, Elmer, Glen, and Duane Hayes spent the week end at Providence, R. I.

Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Doughty entertained a Hallowe'en party at Sunset Cottage, Locke Mills. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hayes, Miss Charlotte Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Flov Towne, all of Norway; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Mann of West Paris. A very pleasant evening was passed. Mr. and Mrs. Doughty accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hayes left the following morning for a few days at the Hunters Camp, Greenwood.

The Senior Girl Scouts had a theater party Monday night and returned to the home of Joan Ellingwood for refreshments and a Hallowe'en party.

Starr Norine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley O. Andrews, was given a surprise birthday party at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Durdward Ring in honor of her fourteenth birthday.

Mrs. Norine Ring, grandmother, and Mrs. Andrews assisted in serving refreshments. Games were played and prizes awarded. Sandra Gardner played piano selections. Singing was enjoyed by all.

Those present were: Felicia Collette, Marie Black, Ali Immonen, Virginia Hilder, Jean Lindsay, Rosalie Curtis, Gloria Abbott, Sandra Gardner, Shirley Ann Ellingwood, Eva Day, Maurice Benson, Dorothy Farr, Avis Farr, Jean Wood, Alice Young, Donna Mae Andrews, Elizabeth Farr, Sheryl Waisanen, and Mrs. Norine Ring, grandmother.

HULLABALOO

By LITTLE HULL

IF THE VARIOUS state department officials and advisers who have been accused of having brought about the downfall of the Communist Nationalist government of China were really working for the Kremlin, it would relieve the administration of some extent of the full blame for the awful situation which we now face.

It is certain Russia would choose as her agents in an affair of such magnitude and importance the possessors of the most brilliant minds. Our present administration is not notable for outstanding mentality, and if it succumbed to the seeming logic of far smarter men, it would bear a lesser blame.

But everyone whose name has been brought into these recent investigations has sworn to his loyalty and patriotism, and the administration has backed him up. If these men are good patriots, then our government stands convicted of such startling stupidity in the management of foreign affairs as to brand it hopeless.

This nation has been forced into the leadership of the free world and should be capable of combating the deadly menace if her leaders are smart enough.

But the errors in judgment of the Democratic administrations of the last 20 years have been so colossal and so destructive, that we have already lost a number of natural allies and others are beginning to sidestep us.

Europeans forget their own awful mistakes when they begin to reveal in criticism of ours. They grow red in the face when they discuss Tientsin and Peking; or the loss of India and China; or the debacle of India and the Arab states—for all of which they hold us responsible.

Our government is fast losing the free world's respect for its leadership and with it the leadership so essential to the survival of freedom. If we can hold out until the 1952 election we will still survive and defeat the menace, if we can win it. The American people use their brains.

Today I am giving the ladies a chance to brag about what they have done since they got the ballot back under 50 or so years ago. They can tell us how smart and pretty everything is now, or maybe they can show the whole thing and tell us how some saloons are even more plentiful. How come a 1950 dollar car now costs $200 and not less as it was when the old pelicans were running the showback alone.

We now have power shortages in that dominated regions we can be found in the corners if caught with gold chains on our person. We have rationing. We have confusing ceilings and floors shifted on us over night—we have an income tax man finger our paycheck—we have a 54 cent loaf of bread—we have a 50 cent short beer—we have a black firewater—we have just about everything 100 per cent, that we don't like.

Now gain what I want to know is, what is the fly in the ointment, why is everything not sweet and lovely. Why is a good girl hard to find—why do you have no more food in the ice box than 25 years ago maybe less.

Come right out with it—did the guy you voted for have a tie you liked, also did he have wavy hair—and also, maybe, did it turn out that he was not too hefty in the bean or what? You were going to clean up to home now you will feel better tell us.

Yours with the low-down, JO SEIRA.

KITTORY PUBLISHER IS AN EDITOR OF OUTDOOR MAGAZINE

The following article will be of local interest as Mrs. Mitchell is the former Jeannette Gordon, daughter of the late Rev. Murdock A. Gordon and Mrs. Gordon, Bethel residents for several years while Mr. Gordon was pastor of the Methodist Church.

Horace Mitchell, Kittory, publisher, composes, prints and edits the "Kittory Press," a weekly paper. In his spare moments he is game breeding editor of "Sports Afford," a national outdoor magazine of good reputation.

Mr. Mitchell has been in the game breeding field for many years and was one of the first men to raise pheasants without a lot of hullabaloo and fancy trimmings. In good old Maine fashion, he set about, years ago, just hatching 'em like chickens and feeding 'em like domestic poultry. He had pens in his backyard—which, by the way, is the backyard of one of Maine's more historic old mansions—and when he noticed that the pheasants were battling around the wire pens, he tucked some brush in one corner and let it go at that.

Meanwhile, a lot of fancy talk was being bandied about the difficulties of raising Ring-necked and Mulans. This faked "Horace," as his friends all know him, and he took pen in hand and wrote an article for the Boston, Mass., "Herald," pointing out that game breeders weren't seeing the woods for the trees. The story won his national recognition. Shortly, he found himself game editor of "Field & Stream," then he was asked to write stories on the subject for "The Saturday Evening Post" and similar slick paper magazines. The editors paid such fantastic amounts that boy-like for he was quite young then, he moved into a whole suite of rooms in a Portsmouth, N. H. hotel and lived like one of the royal litterati of that day. This went on until other writers muscled in on his ideas and stole some of his thunder.

Mr. Mitchell has a keen sense of Yankee humor. He wrote many first-page, black-face features for such papers as "The Boston Herald," following his start as a nationally known writer. These little pieces concerned ducks crossed with parrots, that flew South to size up the duck situation and returned to "Maine" to inform that masters of the picture, flat eggs, that could be shipped more easily and which were ideal for making omelets, pigs that wore goggles to provide leaner meat for farmers; and many other little pieces of his sharp wit. Then, he started the Kittory Press, married a charming school teacher and lives as happily ever after as is possible in such hectic times.

All of which brings us back to his present title of Game Breeding Editor, "Sports Afford."

Recently, he called at the State House in Augusta. He talked with the Governor, had lunch with the Fish-Game Commissioner and dropped into the Public Relations office to pass on a money-making idea for Maine folks who live in the country.

"The chief crops of many of our small farms nowadays," he vowed, "are perspiration and taxes, and most of us would have a tough time raising these."

Instead, Mr. Mitchell suggests that such farmers raise pheasants, bob white quail and mallard ducks. He says there is a big demand from clubs for these birds and a further demand for the table. He says, in his position as game editor, he gets scores of letters requesting information on where such birds can be purchased, that prices are high, that he will pass on specific information to anybody in Maine who is interested.

"There's a million bucks waiting for the fellow who can solve the problem of successfully raising rafted grouse, or partridge, as we call 'em in Maine," he added.

Mr. Mitchell thinks some Maine man might solve this riddle as easily, perhaps, as he first solved himself, the problem of pheasant raising.

EASY DOES IT

AVOID VIOLENT BOILING when you're cooking vegetables. After the food comes to a steam, lower the heat to the lowest temperature required to maintain steaming. This keeps vegetables whole and decreases loss of water-soluble substances.

Curdling in scalloped omelets can be prevented by making a white sauce of the milk and cheese before combining it with other ingredients.

Any dishes with milk should be baked by setting the dish prepared in a pan of water. This allows a more even temperature for the cooking and also prevents scorching.

GENUINE

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

SHE CAME into my office one day in June. It was hot, and I was out of sorts, anyway. Old Man Fineston of Magnificent Pictures had told me to dig up a lass to play a sweet-tempered, innocent country girl in his latest film. Something genuine, he said. That made me mad. There wasn't a sweet-tempered, innocent country girl in the whole of Hollywood. Did the man think I was a magician?

She stood in front of my desk and dug a toe into the floor and looked at me shyly. She was wearing a gingham dress and her hair was done in braids down her back. I smirked. This kid had learned from somewhere that I needed a part for Fineston's picture and she'd called herself out to what she thought was a sweet-tempered country-girl costume and was applying for the job. It kind of disgusted me, pulling an old gag like that. She must be pretty desperate, I thought.

"You're cuckoo," I said. "If you think anything innocent ever looked like that."

Her eyes grew round. She didn't seem to get it. "My name's Mary Smith," she recited. "I'm from New England, where I played the leading role in—"

"Sure, sure," I interrupted. "You were the heroine in the high school senior play in West Bicycle, New Hampshire. They told you you were good, so you came out here to give Hollywood a break. Decent of you."

"It wasn't the senior play," she corrected. "It was the Village Dramatic society. And it wasn't in West Bicycle, New Hampshire. It was North Valley, Vermont. And Mr. Emery did say I was good."

"But even so," I helped out, "you wouldn't have come to wicked Hollywood unless the mortgage was due on the old homestead and your poor mother was about to be tossed out on her ear."

She dropped her eyes. "Mr. Emery must have written you about it. He said he would. I—I felt so ashamed I asked him not to." She looked up eagerly. "You have got a job for me, haven't you?—I can play most anything."

I felt like swearing, and did. She blushed. It was the blush that got me. If the kid could pull an act like that—even down to blushing—I figured she was the one for the part.

"You win," I said. "I'll give you a try, anyway. But you're cockeyed if you think that rig had anything to do with it. I'll tell my secretary to give you a note to the wardrobe department. They'll fit you out in what a real New England girl should wear. Report to stage 5 in an hour."

It was a week later that I met Fineston. "Terry," he said, "you're a genius. How do you do it?"

"It's a gift," I said. "Do what?"

"Pick them out. That girl! She's wonderful! She's genuine!"

"What girl?" I said.

"Mary Smith. The girl from Vermont. She's going to make that picture box-office. Terry, old boy, where do you find 'em?"

"Oh, hell!" I said, and remembered the doubts and fears I'd en-tained after taking her on. Once or twice I'd been afraid Fineston might fire me. Well, it looked as though the thing had turned out pretty well. "Listen," I said. "She's still not calling herself Mary Smith, is she?"

Fineston nodded. I laughed. "That kid believes in following through. I wonder what her real name is and how she had the nerve to pull that gag."

Once or twice after that I went down to the lot to watch Mary Smith work. She was doing all right. To see her act you'd think she couldn't help being shy and unsophisticated. She was pretty, too. I considered asking her to go out to dinner, and changed my mind. It's against the rules to take out a player when she's doing a part.

A month later the picture was finished and I thought of calling up Mary. But I didn't have to. That morning she came into my office wearing the same gingham dress.

She had come, she said, to thank me for being so kind to her. "Forget it, kid," I said. "Stick around. Maybe I can do something else for you."

"Oh, thank you," she said. "I really couldn't. I've made enough money to pay off the mortgage and I'm going home and help mama raise chickens."

I began to get mad. "Cut out the acting," I said. "It's all over. Be yourself for awhile. Say, I'll bet you're all right when you're yourself."

But it didn't do any good. Mary Smith managed a shy and pretty blush and turned and went out. I grunted. Well, let her cool off for awhile. She'd be coming back soon enough for another job.

But she didn't. The summer passed, and the winter. I thought about her once in awhile. Some other studio must have picked her up.

That spring I tried looking her up, but without any luck. Fineston was sending me east to look up some country for his new picture, "Hunted Woman." It was a good story, and we planned to do big things with it.

It was hot in New York, and one week-end I drove up country on a scouting expedition. The following Monday I found myself in Vermont—standing at a crossroad sign marked "North Valley."

I had a kind of queer feeling when I turned down that road. I came to a village with a general store. A man answered my question. "You go down that way a piece and turn left. It's the first house on the right. You can't miss it."

"I didn't," Mary herself, wearing a gingham dress and a sunbonnet, came out to see what I wanted. She had a basket full of eggs. Her eyes grew round as saucers at sight of me.

"Well, of all things!" she said. "You—came all the way back here just to find me." The old blush came into her cheeks. "Oh—I hoped you would. Please come up to the house and have some butter-milk."

SUNDAY RIVER

— Mrs. R. M. Fleet, Corres. —
Mr and Mrs Holman Bacon of Portsmouth, N. H., are in town for a few days.

Last week white violets and daisies were picked but today all has plenty of white as started snowing about noon Sunday and Monday morning we had two and one-half inches.

A very enjoyable afternoon was spent by the children at the social Friday afternoon even though a very small group were able to get there. The treat of cake, cookies, and a very nice jello was enjoyed. Miss Eunice Shaw was with us for the afternoon.

Mr and Mrs R. M. Bean spent the week end at Hartford, Conn.

THE BALLAD OF THE PINE

Addie Kendall Mason
For uncounted years I have reigned supreme

With the trees of the forest wide; Aloft I've waved my colors green With no care for the wind or tide With proud disdain my limbs I've tossed

In the soothing Summer breeze; No trouble to me was the Winter's frost Nor old Borrass rush amongst the trees.

But alas! the ax of the woodman bold Has laid bare my brave old heart To the jeers and scoffs of the world so cold

Who ne'er in my life had part Ah! never again 'neath my pleasant shade Will the children romp with glee; Nor the feathered songsters from every glade

Fill my branches with melody. The bright eyed squirrels will never more Chase each other, so glad and wild;

Around my trunk as they did of yore When the Autumn days were mild. My colors will trail in the dust so gray

While their emerald green grows brown; The fox has beaten me in the fray The king of "Pine Woods" is down.

My proud old head ye have brought to earth My heart ye have broken in twain; My body ye'll bear from the place of its birth As a thing, shall I never more reign?

But hark ye afar from these hillsides fair Have gone many a youth and maid, Whose thoughts oft turn to the days so rare

When they roamed 'neath "Pine Woods" shade. And better women and men are they For the days spent with me and mine.

And the lessons learned in the orphanage gray 'Neath the shade of the murmuring pine. And weird fancies will come to them

Of the pine trees mournful thrill - Though you banish me from my longtime realm Yet my kingdom's a kingdom still.

My scepter, the tassel and cone of green. With ribbons so deftly bound In the halls of the rich and great as seen

On the cottagers walls it is found My subjects ye'll find them in every land In valley on mountain or plain

With hearts ever true to one end - them grand The pine tree of dear old Maine

CHRISTMAS CLUB FUNDS REACH $552,000.00

Nine hundred and fifty-two million dollars will be distributed to about ten million eight hundred and seventy five thousand Christmas Club members by approximately sixty two hundred banking and savings institutions during National Prosperity Week, starting Monday, November 26th, according to an estimate given out yesterday by Edward F. Dorset, President of Christmas Club, a Corporation of New York.

The total distribution is 3.4% ahead of last year and represents an all time high for the forty one years of Christmas Club operation. The average per member distribution is about $7.50 for the entire country, as against $4.57 last year. In the large metropolitan areas the average per member distribution is approximately $9.00. The total number of individual members participating this year is approximately the same as a year ago.

Christmas Club, a Corporation, believes that this continuing increase in Christmas Club Savings shows a definite trend in the public thinking toward individual financial security which is the ultimate financial security of the nation.

Roscoe Clark purchased a farm at Lisbon. The so-called M. D. Sturtevant house on Main St. was sold to Mrs. Angela Clark.

STATE OF MAINE PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

Whereas, our forefathers decreed that one day each year be set aside for the purpose of expressing our gratitude to God for the many blessings with which we are endowed; and

Whereas, the same perseverance and courage, which carried the Puritans through their hardships, is needed today to lead us through the international strife which is threatening our democratic way of life; and

Whereas, our natural resources are still undeveloped; in many instances, and our crops and harvest have been exceptionally bountiful; and

Whereas, we should be thankful for the progress made in agriculture over the years, which has truly made this a "land of plenty," and give thanks to our good Lord for the wisdom and guidance which have carried us through social and economic upheavals, and pray that He continue to guide us through the difficult period ahead;

Now, Therefore, I, FREDERICK G. PAYNE, Governor of the State of Maine, do hereby proclaim

Thursday, November 22, 1951, as

and urge appropriate observances in our churches, homes and schools in continuance of our honored custom and as an expression of appreciation for the numerous blessings which are ours.

Given at the office of the Governor at Augusta, and sealed with the Great Seal of the State of Maine, this nineteenth day of October, in the year of our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-one, and of the Independence of the United States of America, the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth.

INCREASING INTEREST SHOWN IN ELECTRIFICATION CONTEST

After holding regional meetings and demonstrations at which forty-one schools in northern and eastern Maine were represented by over 900 chapter members of Future Homemakers of America and Future Farmers of America, Frank R. Bailey, state organizer for the electric utility companies, reports much greater interest is being shown than last year when he was organizing the first Electrification Essay Contest.

To help the students better understand how electricity is being used to lighten the work in the home and on the farm, Mr. Bailey uses a simple demonstration to show how Light, Heat and Power are obtained by the "flip" of a switch. By the use of farm pictures, he explains how Reddy Kilowatt works for the dairyman, the poultryman, and the general farmer. A model modern electric kitchen in miniature is used to show kitchen planning and the saving in time, steps and labor when electric equipment is used in the home.

To compare costs of electric service, Mr. Bailey analyzes actual electric service bills, pointing out amounts applicable to various household and farm uses.

A booklet on adequate wiring, grounding, and fusing is left with the students for further class study.

The essay is to be based on what electricity is doing to lighten the work in the home and on the farm. Essays will be graded on knowledge of subject, originality, and organization of subject material. Enrollment in the contest must be made by chapter members not later than midnight, November 15th.

The contest closes and essays must be completed not later than January 15, 1952.

Chapter advisors agree that the banquet promised for the top ranking 100 girls and 100 boys to be held at the University of Maine is the award of most interest to their students. However, they will all try for the $100 cash award for both a boy and a girl for the best essay in the state and the $480 dividend as county awards.

As a memento of the contest, every boy or girl enrolling and submitting an essay will receive a Reddy Kilowatt souvenir.

From attendance in the following schools where meetings have already been held, it is expected more than 1,000 chapter members of FFA and FFA groups will enroll in the electrification contest this year. Schools represented at regional meetings to date are: Unity, Freedom, Fairfield, Dover, Dexter, Guilford, Newcastle, Waldoboro, Boothbay, Skowhegan, Madison, Brooks, Hampden, Old Town, Hermon, Camden, Winslow, Hartland, Newport, Corinna, Jonesport, Machias, Lubec, Presque Isle, Mapleton, Easton, Washburn, Calais, Ashland, Fort Kent, Madawaska, Van Buren, Canton, Limestone, Mars Hill, Houlton, Patten, Lincoln, Bluehill, Southwest Harbor, and Ellsworth. Organization meetings for the balance of the state have already been scheduled and will be held up to November 15th.
